SECTION A – READING (35 MARKS)

Q.1 Read the passage given below carefully and answer the questions that follow:

[15 Marks]

In the evenings usually many friends came to visit father and he would relax after the tension of the day and the house would resound with his tremendous laughter. His laugh became famous in Allahabad. Sometimes, I would peep at him and his friends from behind a curtain trying to make out what these ~~great~~ big people said to each other. If I was caught in the act I would be dragged out and, rather frightened, made to sit for a while on father's knee.

I admired father tremendously. He seemed to me the embodiment of strength, courage and cleverness, far above all the other men I saw, and I treasured the hope that when I grew up I would be rather like him. But, much as I admired him and loved him, I feared him also. His temper was indeed an awful thing and even in after years I don't think I ever came across anything to match it in its own line. But, fortunately, he had a strong sense of humour also and an iron will, and he could as a ruler control himself. As he grew older his power of control grew, and it was very rare for him to indulge in anything like his old temper.

One of my earliest recollections is of this temper, for I was the victim of it. I must have been about five or six then. I noticed one day two fountain pens on his office table and I looked at them with greed. I argued with myself that father could not require both at the same time and so I helped myself to one of them. Later I found that a mighty search was being made for the lost pen and I grew frightened at what I had done, but I did not confess. The pen was discovered and my guilt proclaimed to the world. Father was very angry and he gave me a tremendous thrashing.

I do not remember bearing any ill will toward my father because of this punishment. I think I must have felt that it was a just punishment, though perhaps over-done. But, though my admiration and affection for him remained as strong as ever, fear formed a part of them. Not so with my mother. I had no fear, for I knew she would condone everything I did, and because of her excessive and indiscriminating love for me, I tried to dominate over her a little. I saw much more of her than I did of my father, and she seemed nearer to me, so I would confide in her when I would not dream of doing so to father. She was polite and short of stature, and soon I was almost as tall as she was and felt more of an equal with her. I admired her beauty and loved her amazingly small and beautiful hands and feet.

On the basis of your understanding of the passage, choose the correct option.

Q.2 Read the poem carefully and answer the questions that follow: [10 Mark]

Talent may shine like a star in the night,
 A gift from the heavens, burning bright.
 But passion, like fire, is a force untamed,
 It pushes us forward, unafraid and unashamed.

Talent can sleep when the winds are calm,
 But passion awakens, a constant psalm.
 It fuels the journey, no matter the cost,
 Turning each setback into a gain, never lost.

So choose passion over the gift you are born,
 For in its warmth, new paths are adorned.
 Talent may start the race, but passion's the key.
 To unlock the doors to your fullest destiny.

3. Read the poem and answer the following questions:-

[10 Marks]

"The voice of Nature"

The morning sun climbs through the mist,
 And paints the hills with golden twist.
 The river hums a gentle song,
 It guides the weary hearts along

The trees stand tall, their branches wide,
 With secrets that breezes hide.
 Each leaf that flutters, green & small,
 Whispers of peace to one & all.

The night then comes with silver light,
 The stars awake to guard the night.
 The moon reflects a quiet grace,
 A tender smile on nature's face.

Oh! Listen well, both near and far,
 To earth, to sky, to stream, to star.
 For every voice in nature's part,
 Speaks softly to the human heart.

Answer the following questions :-

- (a) What does the river do in the poem? [1 mark]
 (b) What do the trees hide, according to the poet? [1 mark]
